EARTHQUAKE ENGINEERING RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIP

The Australian Earthquake Engineering Society (AEES) is offering a scholarship of up to $3000 to suitably qualified persons to assist research activities related to earthquake engineering or seismology. Suitable research areas include most aspects of earthquakes and their effects.

Applications are welcomed from individuals fulfilling the following criteria:

- undertaking post-graduate or under-graduate honours research related to earthquake engineering or seismology that is consistent with the objective of AEES;
- enrolled at the time of application at an Australian university;
- a current member of AEES.

No application form is required.

Applicants should provide the following information, briefly but clearly:

- a short title describing the research;
- a clear statement of the nature, purpose and probable outcomes of their proposed research;
- a detailed work plan and budget indicating the amount requested for the Research Scholarship (not to exceed $3,000) and the specific manner in which it will be used;
- other sources of financial support of the proposed research;
- a brief curriculum vitae;
- a letter of support from a university staff member involved with the research project.

The Earthquake Engineering Research Scholarship would be awarded under the following conditions:

- the subject of study and the applicant are considered suitable by the AEES National Committee;
- the person who completed the application undertakes the research;
- the Scholarship is awarded for 12 months;
- on completion of the research project, or the portion of the project funded by the Scholarship, the Scholarship holder prepares a paper on the research suitable for publication in the Proceedings of the AEES Annual Conference. Part of the Scholarship will be withheld until this condition is fulfilled.

The closing date for applications is 31 October 2013 and applications should be sent to:
